National Chairman Of GOP Requests Proof Nixon Said Truman Was Traitor

WASHINGTON, Feb. 4 (P)—GOP National Chairman Leonard W. Hall today challenged former President Truman to show when or where Vice President Nixon ever called Truman a traitor.

Hall released a series of excerpts from Nixon's 1952 and 1954 political campaign speeches which he said did not disclose "any instance whatever in which the vice president ever called Mr. Truman a traitor or referred to the Democratic party as the party of treason."

Truman told newsmen in New York Friday that Nixon had called him a traitor and even the thought of it made him "not only want to swear but to punch somebody." He said that "to be called a traitor by a vice president of the United States is hard to take."

Nixon said on his return today from a trip to Brazil that "I have no comment on anything Mr. Truman said."

Sen. Sparkman (D-Ala.), the 1952 Democratic vice presidential nominee, said that Hall may be technically correct in claiming that Nixon never actually labeled Truman a "traitor."

"A lot can be said by implication that may not actually be put into words," Sparkman told a newsmen. "The clear implication of Nixon, former Gov. Thomas E. Dewey and other Republicans in many speeches was that the Democratic party was a party of treason and Democrats were people who coddled Communists."

Sparkman said that as an example Nixon said in Butte, Mont., on Oct. 22, 1954, that "the Communist party is determined to conduct its program within the Democratic party."

"I don't think anybody can deny the clear implication of that statement was that the Democrats were consorting with Communists," he said.

Hall's compilation of excerpts does not include the Butte quote. Those cited by Hall generally took the tack that Nixon was not questioning the loyalty of Truman or Adlai E. Stevenson but felt that their judgment was "shocking bad."

Air Reserve Flight Meeting Will Be Held In Courthouse Monday

An Air Reserve flight meeting will be held Monday at 7:30 p.m. in the assembly room of the courthouse. Captain Ellison, an assistant from the Kansas City Air Reserves Center, will be present to conduct the meeting.

A short Air Force movie will be shown in the group.

Ten applicants were signed up at the January meeting held here, which is the required number to start a "flight." It is the plan to eventually make the flight into a squadron, and with sufficient interest, there is an easy potential for this number in the Sedalia-Warsburg areas.

A squadron requires 50 members, which would mean a permanent military cadre would be located in the area for administration and training purposes.

Former members of the Air Force or Air Force Reserve who reside in Sedalia are requested to attend the meeting at the courthouse and hear the discussions and, if they desire, sign applications for membership in the flight.

Boys Discover More Than $1,000 on Path

KANSAS CITY, Kan. (P)—Three 13-year-old boys found more than $1,000 currency on a path along side a field.

They turned it over to Police Chief John J. Therooff, who declined today to name the junior high school boys while efforts to find the owner of the money are going on.

TURCOAT TRIES FOR FREEDOM—Corporal Edward S. Dickenson, 25, left, of Cracker's Neck, Va., turncoat Korean POW, confers with his attorneys, Guy Emery of Washington, D.C., center, and Homer Davis of Leavenworth, Kans., in Kansas City, Kans., before Dickenson went on the stand in habeas corpus action to free him. Dickenson, now serving a 10-year sentence in the Federal Detention Barracks at Ft. Leavenworth, Kansas, for informing on fellow POWs and aiding the enemy in Korea, alleges he was entitled to discharge from the service before Army charges were brought against him. (NEA Telephoto).

Truman Says GOP Welfare Stand Kinder

Ex-President Says It May Be Merely Deathbed Repent

BOSTON, Feb. 4 (P)—Former President Truman said tonight the administration's position in the matter of health, education, and welfare is more humane and that it may be "the kind of deathbed repentance that comes to them in an election year."

And he added: "I might say that when they contemplate this election I think it is appropriate for them to think in terms of deathbed repentance."

Charging the influence of "big business" in the Eisenhower administration held back the wheels of progress in the fields of health welfare and education, Truman said in a speech prepared for a Jefferson-Jackson dinner:

"The Republicans at first put Mrs. Oveta Culp Hobby at the head of the Department of Health Education and Welfare. But she was apparently more interested in the balance sheet than she was in helping people in trouble and distress. She opposed lowering the age at which women can retire under Social Security.

According to Walch, there will be approximately 350 season tickets placed with the Chamber of Commerce at its office, 113 East Fourth. Anyone desiring to obtain one or more of these tickets can pick them up at no cost and use them for the remaining concerts. These 350 tickets were also made possible through the subscribers and sponsors.

Although it was reported to the Sedalia police an ambulance had been called and there were persons hurt, a check of the hospitals and Dr. Pete Siegel's clinic in Smithton was made and no persons had been taken there. The Burfords left the car and went on to their home in Smithton, it was learned Saturday.

The car, owned by John Burford, Smithton, was reportedly driven by Mrs. Burford and was headed east on the highway when the accident occurred.

Violinist Zvi Zeitlin Is Guest— Sedalia Symphony Orchestra Has Second Concert Feb. 13

The second concert of the 1955-56 season of the Sedalia Symphony Orchestra, under the direction of Abe Rosenthal, will require season tickets or a door admission of one dollar, it was announced here today by officials of the orchestra.

The concert will be held at Smith-Cotton Auditorium Monday, Feb. 13.

At the first concert, the subscribers and sponsors comprised of business establishments and individuals, served as underwriters for the concert. Since that time, season tickets have been placed in the hands of the subscribers and sponsors. Harry Walch, president of the Sedalia Symphony Society, has requested that those who have received their tickets should try to get them in the hands of their customers and friends as soon as possible. Walch pointed out that these season tickets will then permit the recipients of these tickets to attend the remaining concerts.

FBI Enters Furore Over Bill on Gas

Senate Chiefs Tell Plan for Holding Formal Investigation

WASHINGTON, Feb. 4 (P)—The FBI stepped into the gas bill furore today to determine whether federal laws were violated by a reported $2,500 offer to Sen. Francis Case (R-SD). Senate leaders meanwhile announced plans for a formal Senate probe.

Case, who implied in the Senate yesterday the campaign contribution was offered for his vote in favor of the natural gas bill, said he would "welcome" the Senate inquiry.

Case indicated he had given the name of the person or persons involved to two FBI agents he said had called on him.

"They are a responsible agency, and I said I'd give them to any responsible agency," Case told newsmen.

But Sen. Hennings (D-Mo.), an opponent of the bill, said in a statement the measure should be sent back to committee Monday pending "a thorough investigation of the oil cartel." He said he did not think it should be considered again until the Senate has passed an election reform measure.

From what he knows, Hennings said, "It appears to me that no bribe was intended." But he conceded the entire problem of campaign contributions by wealthy special interest groups need study.

But despite demands that he give senators the name of the man who made the offer, he said "I see no good to be accomplished by my giving the name" in advance of any authorized investigation.

The limited FBI investigation was announced by Asst. Atty. Gen. William P. Rogers. He said he had asked the FBI to interview Case and "to conduct such other investigations which may be necessary" to determine whether federal laws have been violated.

Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas announced after a conference with GOP chieftains that unless there are further developments he will move in the Senate Monday to set up a select committee to inquire into Case's charge. In the balance hung the fate of the bitterly contested bill to exempt producers of natural gas from direct federal regulation. A final vote on the measure has been scheduled for Monday. Johnson said he has no plans to delay the vote.

Foes of the bill contend it would add millions to consumer's gas bills. Backers of the measure deny this, and say that unless federal regulation is eased exploration for gas will be discouraged, with a resultant shortage and higher prices.

Although it was reported to the Sedalia police an ambulance had been called and there were persons hurt, a check of the hospitals and Dr. Pete Siegel's clinic in Smithton was made and no persons had been taken there. The Burfords left the car and went on to their home in Smithton, it was learned Saturday.

It was the final event of the two-day tournaments.

Southwest Missouri State of Springfield and Ottawa University were eliminated in the semi-finals.

Russell Keeling and Miss Joretta Yost, representing Southwest Missouri State, won the junior division. Glenn Davis and Porter Sigler of Washburn University were runners-up.

Seventeen schools participated in the tournament. Eight more had entered but decided to keep their teams home because of the weather and bad roads.

Carleton Powers, field representative of the National Cotton Council of Memphis, Tenn., told the meeting this fact was shown in a recent price study made by the council.

City Dwellers Plan to Trek Into Jungle

CHICAGO, Feb. 4—How would you like to spend your vacation in a trackless jungle?

A party of 15 city dwellers plan to do it. They're going to trek into the vastness of northwestern Guatemala, one of the earth's most primitive areas.

The expedition of Chicagoans, ranging in age from 15 to 60 and including professional and business men, leaves Feb. 8, on its auto, plane and muleback tour.

During the three-week adventure, its members hope to visit the wild Lacondones, a little-known tribe of about 85 Guatemalan Indians who still hunt with bow, spear and blowpipe.

Moving spirit of the offbeat jaunt is Dr. Harold L. Emiley, a 46-year-old chiropodist.

Dr. Emiley is an old hand at conducting such tours. This will be his third to Guatemala. He has taken eight groups into the wilds of northern Canada.

He does it just for the love of adventure. "I want memories to live with when I'm old or broken down," he says. "And visiting the outdoor wilds is the greatest change of pace I can imagine for the city business or professional man."

On his trips last year and the year before, Dr. Emiley says, his parties found "temples and pyramids of the ancient Mayas which probably never before have been seen by white men."

'Moonshiner' Is Lost Money To Tax People

BLOFIELD, W. Va., Feb. 4.—Mention the word "moonshiner" and most people probably will conjure up a lanky, bearded, barefoot mountaineer firing at a "revenoer" with an old muzzle loader.

Many probably think of the moonshiner as a humorous and relatively harmless character who runs off a little "white lightnin'" and then sits back against a tree drinking it from a brown jug.

But that's not precisely the way he is regarded by the men whose job it is to catch the often wily makers of mountain dew.

Agents of the Alcohol and Tobacco Tax Unit think of him this way:

With a common six-barrel outfit with a mash capacity of 300 gallons, the moonshiner can produce 88 gallons of liquor a week.

This amounts to a tax loss by the government of $924 a week at $10.50 a gallon.

Incidentally, 100 stills is the approximate number estimated to be in operation in the hills of the six southern West Virginia counties of McDowell, Raleigh, Mercer, Summers, Wyoming and Monroe.

ATU agents, who naturally won't disclose their method of operation in nabbing mountain dew manufacturers, say the liquor operations often are vast, involving high-powered automobiles and even air-planes.

A Virginian who crash-landed his single-engine airplane near Bluefield last summer pleaded guilty in federal court here recently to hauling moonshine liquor.

He planned to land at the Welch Airport with his load when he developed engine trouble.

Some fruit jars in the plane that were full of liquor broke. Someone else smelled it, and the government men were on the trail.

Authorities estimate about 5,000 gallons of untaxed liquor is hauled into this area each week. Much of it is for further shipment to Charleston and Huntington.

The unfortunate fellow whose plane developed engine trouble was among 43 persons brought into federal court during the current term on liquor charges. Still others were taken into state courts for prosecution.

Government agents say moonshiners usually are quite calm about being arrested. The violators usually run when they are surprised at a still, but they generally run right into the arms of other government men.

They often admit everything about their operation, and look upon their arrest as one of the hazards of their profession.

Of course, arresting a moonshiner isn't always easy. Statistics show that in the past 10 years throughout the nation, 10 ATU agents have been killed by gunfire; 14 were killed in auto accidents, and 14 died from overexposure, overexertion or injuries in the line of duty.

Twenty-one others were wounded by violators, 355 were assaulted by moonshiners and 634 were injured.

There are many humorous stories, and some not so humorous, about the "revenoers" and their relentless war on moonshiners.

One story they still laugh about around federal court here concerns an old moonshiner who was named in the usual six-count moonshining indictment.

One of the counts in the ordinary indictment charges failure to post a sign saying "Registered Distillery" as required by law.

The old fellow understood he was charged with making liquor but he didn't understand about the sign. The judge, attempting to explain, asked him if there was a sign at the still.

The moonshiner scratched his head and said there was. Astounded, the judge then asked:

"Do you mean to tell me there was a sign at your still?"

The old moonshiner replied:

"Yes, sir. You see, I was wearing big arctic boots and where the ground was muddy around the still I left plenty of sign."

Government men say moonshine liquor generally sells for about $4.50 a gallon when sold in case lots. A pint costs about $2.

Many people call it "That good old mountain dew."

But is it? No, say federal agents.

They say moonshiners wouldn't win any medals for being sanitary in their liquor manufacturing.

One veteran agent observed:

"No one who had seen how moonshine liquor is made would dare drink it."

Mr. and Mrs. D. K. Manns

Wins Sales Contest, Trip To Mexico

D. K. Manns, service station dealer at Broadway and Center Streets, has won an all-expense-paid trip to Mexico for himself and his wife in a $150,000 sales contest, the largest ever conducted by Standard Oil Co.

The winners were selected at a banquet at Kansas City, attended by 80 dealers, salesmen and their wives. W. E. Kipper, division manager of the Kansas City division, also announced the other winners which included a reseller salesman, a special representative and the divisional representative from this area.

Thirty other dealers were awarded merchandise prizes in the year long competition between 600 dealers in the Kansas City division.

Mr. and Mrs. Manns will board a plane at Kansas City airport March 3, on the first leg of their journey.

In Mexico City they'll stay at the fabulous Del Prado Hotel where they will join 18 other contestants and their wives from throughout the Midwest for a week-long fiesta.

High spots of the trip will include tours to the floating gardens of Xochimilco, the bull fights, monasteries, palaces and shrines, and Aztec and Toltec Indian ruins. They will visit Cuernavaca, browse in the silver artisans' shops of picturesque Taxco, swim and fish at the seaside resort of Acapulco. Darrel Manns moved to his new station at Broadway and Center from the old location at Broadway and Engineer. He has been a Standard dealer for three years here in Sedalia.

Pfc. James S. Gipson, 20, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Gipson, Cross Timbers, is taking part in the Army's Alaskan "Exercise Moose Horn" in the Big Delta area, 165 miles from the Arctic Circle.

During the four-week maneuver, several thousand troops will receive practical training in tactical operations and cross-country movement under simulated combat conditions. Winter temperatures in the region drop to about 50 degrees below zero.

Also two methods of arctic supply, airdrop and giant oversnow tractor-sled-trains, are being compared.

Pfc. Gipson is regularly assigned as a rifleman with Company C of the 71st Infantry Division's 4th Regiment in Alaska.

He entered the Army in Nov. 1954, and was stationed at Fort Bliss, Tex., before arriving in Alaska in March 1955.

Scientist To Address Local Club

Scientific research is now a four-million dollar industry in the United States and will produce more changes in our way of life during the next 20 years than we have had in the entire past century, in the opinion of Dr. Gerald Wendt who will address the Knife and Fork Club at its next dinner meeting. "What is ahead," he says, "is not only a second industrial revolution due to atomic power and to automatic factories, but a real cultural renaissance. America will lead the world, not only materially and economically, but culturally and spiritually too—provided only that the public, not just the scientists, understands the role of science and foresees its consequences."

Dr. Wendt is a research scientist himself and is now director of the Institute for Atomic Developments in New York. He attended the Atoms-for-Peace conference at Geneva last summer as official reporter for the United Nations Radio and has just completed a weekly series of science programs on television in London. Prior to the Geneva meeting he had been in Paris for three years in charge of science education and science news for the United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization.

Dr. Wendt will give a preview of what the world can expect from science at the dinner which will be held at Bothwell Hotel at 7 p.m. Monday. A large attendance is expected because of his reputation as an understandable and entertaining speaker who mixes common sense and a sense of humor with his science.

His discussion will include the prospects of atomic power, rocket flight and the proposed earth satellite, new electronic devices and automatic factories, the use of sun-power and synthetic foods, improved health and longer lifespan, and especially the increased time available for living.

Design Depends on Owner--

Space Is Major Problem In Basic Landscape Design

By Mrs. Alfred B. Potts
Garden Club No. 2

In discussing basic landscape design it must be approached from the point of view of the individual home owner and his particular problem. Most of us, unless we build in the country, are handicapped by the problem of space. We are obliged to work with the space we have, which is usually limited to the average home lot.

If you are planning to build a new home and your lot is wider than average, you have some choice in the placing of the house on the lot. This is a part of the problem of trying your landscaping with your house.

Landscape design for any house can be reduced to a formula. One must consider first, the public or foreground area; secondly, the service area, your garage and driveway; and last, not least, your private area devoted to lawn, trees, garden or play space.

The public or foreground area is, as a rule, governed by the building line. This space is usually left in lawn with a shade tree, if necessary, some low plantings of shrubs or evergreens against the house front and a hedge along the side of the property line. The front lawn should not be broken up into scattered shrubs or flower beds, as this fronted area serves solely as a foreground to the house picture and all planting should enhance rather than obscure the architectural lines of the house.

Then your service area, your driveway to your garage, has to be accessible to the street. This driveway should come in a direct line to the garage from the street and to the side, away from the lawns and garden, so that it does not divide or head up your lawn or garden area.

Now we come to the yard or private area. To be most successful, the home ground or yard needs to be carefully designed to suit the particular character, requirements and desires of the owner. It should never be so arranged or designed that it will prove to be a hardship rather than a pleasure. If it demands constant care and attention it will defeat its purpose. Successful designing should be a happy blending of the natural, practical and decorative. It should have definiteness of plan and economy of space, a balance to give restfulness, variety and, if possible, privacy.

It must seem at first glance that such a mixture of ideas is impossible of attainment, yet this thing we call landscape design is just such a combination.

There are many aids to landscaping design, items that can become a point of focus, a rustic gate, a bird bath, a bird feeder, a rose arbor or trellis, a rose garden, a picket fence, evergreens and small trees that can create accent and variety.

Where one is restricted in space, as most of us are on a standard lot, which is long and narrow, it is necessary to reduce the scale in planting. Shrub borders should be limited to four or five feet in depth; flower borders restricted to six feet or less, trees should be of the flowering crab or almond variety, evergreens of the broad leaf variety.

In perennial beds nothing higher than two-and-a-half feet can be accommodated and a complete succession of blooms will probably be abandoned in favor of

Sweet Springs Youth Takes US Army Field Training In Germany

Army Pfc. Kenneth Oehlschlaeger, 19, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Oehlschlaeger, Sweet Springs, recently took part in dismounted field training in Germany with the 42nd Armored Infantry Battalion.

The training included squad and platoon size tactical problems without use of armored troop carriers, which usually support the unit, and defense against chemical, bacteriological and radiological attack.

Pfc. Oehlschlaeger, an ammunition bearer in Company B, entered the Army in November, 1954, and received basic training at Fort Bliss, Tex. He arrived in Europe in April, 1955.

Oehlschlaeger is a 1954 graduate of Sweet Springs High School and a former employee of the Emma Creamery Co.

where their roots may eventually interfere with any underground tiles draining water away from a house.

In conclusion, the most important factor in landscape designing is to make up your mind as to just what you want, then work toward it. Keep it uncluttered and placing trees or shrubs of any size, restrict it in scale to the space available.

Lower Costs And Raise Profits On Your Farm

Prevent fires and accidents and raise farm's earning power.

Much can be done to lower the total production costs and raise the farm profits on many farms in Pettis County by following the lead of the Pettis County 4-H Safety Council. Accidents or injuries caused by removable hazards not only cause lost time but also at times cause considerable loss of value of crops and animals produced. Proper care and removal of obstacles will return one of the highest returns for man hours involved. A major fire or accident can disrupt your tight farming schedule enough to cause you to reach the breaking point.

Since 1950 there has been an average of 292,000 farm fires in the United States. That means that today fire will strike 800 farm homes. Hundreds will be badly damaged, many totally destroyed. An untold number of persons will die, suffer painful burns, or be maimed for life. The bleak part of the story is the fact that there were 3 per cent more farm dwelling fires in 1954 than there were in 1950.

Most fires in the home and on the farm are caused by carelessness. The combination of matches-smoking and misuse of electricity account to close to 40 per cent of all fires of known origin. Once you realize this, you can take steps to remove the hazards on your farm.

To make your home secure from fire, you must first learn to recognize the conditions that can cause fires. Then you must correct them. If you wish to have your farm inspected contact your local 4-H club who will have members who have been trained to inspect your farm buildings. Also they can supply you with an inspection blank for you to inspect other areas of your farm. This sheet will tie together all your hazards and emphasize your problem if you have any.

Ann Quint, Velma Dickman, Sandra Williams and Carol Lee Shirley.

The director of admissions, Park College, Parkville, was in the guidance office Jan. 31 to talk to seniors interested in securing more extensive, first-hand information about the college.

Mrs. Elton Smith, field representative of Drury College, Springfield, was in the guidance office Thursday, Feb. 2, speaking to several students about Drury College.

An assembly was held Wednesday morning for the Junior High school students. The program was in charge of the Junior High Debaters. The winning team was composed of Sheila Isgru and Leroy Street. Number one speaker was Leroy Street. The debate was judged by Senior High debaters, Janice White, Tony Walch and Wayne Brown. A piano solo was also given by Patty Schriener.

New officers were elected in the Junior High Council meeting held Tuesday, Jan. 31.

These newly elected officers were: secretary, Susan Short; treasurer, Peter Lamy; reporter, Terry Steele; parliamentarian, Kenneth Shepherd; and sergeant at arms, Bill Reed.

There will be a Junior High dance on Feb. 10.

The committee chairmen for the dance are Jack Robinson, chairman of the invitations committee, Ted Walch, chairman of the music committee, and Terry Steele, chairman of the decorations committee.

The following persons have been selected as directors and stage managers for the coming intramural plays:

Senior class, Berlene Curtis and Mary Lou Brown; junior class, Rosalie Moore and Bonnie Lazebny; sophomore class, Marva Stoner and Nancy Oswald; freshman class, Judy Ragland and Mary Schofer; and eighth grade, Karen Crosslin and Janice Ringen.

On Friday afternoon, Feb. 3, a contest in interpretative reading of prose works was held in the office of the school nurse at Smith-Cotton. The writings to be read at the district speech festival at Warrensburg were selections read for this contest, and judging was done by Mrs. Sims and James Miller, members of the Smith-Cotton faculty. Alfalfa Goal Of 1000 Acre Raise Reached

Many dress patterns call for machine gathering. Here are some tips to consider.

Fabric weight determines how long the stitch for gathering should be. When materials are fairly light in weight—such as gingham or chambrays—use about nine stitches to the inch. Somewhat firmer or heavier fabrics—such as light-weight wools—require not more than eight stitches to the inch.

The gathering stitch should be long enough to permit the gathers to be pulled up without breaking the thread, but not so long that the thread will be loose. It will be difficult to keep the gathers in place if threads are loose. Practice on a scrap of material to determine the maximum number of stitches you should use. Then set the stitch regulator on your machine for the proper length.

At least two and perhaps three rows of stitches will be needed. Place the first row of stitching where the final seam stitching will fall. Hold the material so that the wrong side is down toward the right side of the machine; the right side will receive the top thread.

Place a second row of stitching one-fourth inch from the first row and toward the raw edge of the seam. If the gathering is to be quite full, a third row of stitching will be needed one-fourth inch on the other side of the seam. This makes it easier to control gathers when stitching the final seam.

Now you are ready to draw up the fullness. Hold all the end of or bobbin threads at one end of the stitching lines together in your hand, and draw them up at the same time. Place a pin in the fabric at the spot from which the pulling is done, and wrap the threads around the pin. This holds gathering threads taut so that gathers may be distributed evenly.

After the final seam is stitched, the third line of gathering stitches (on the inside of the dress seam) may be removed unless it adds a decorative note which is appropriate.

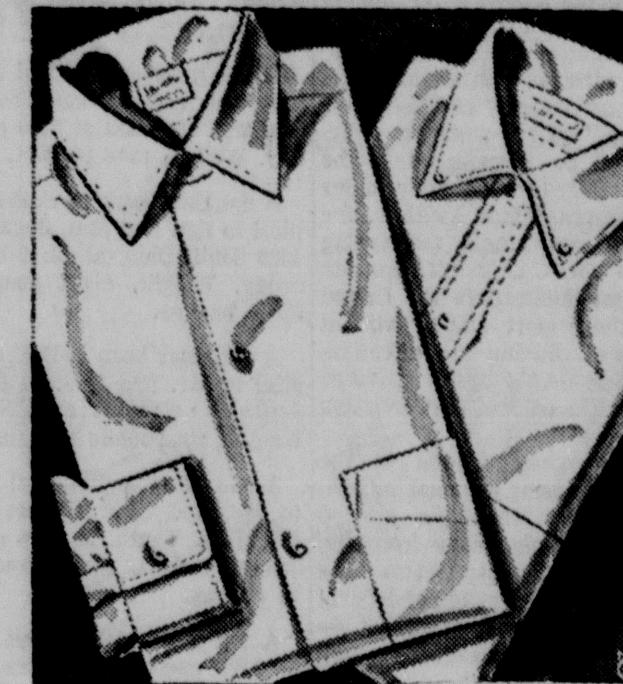

On Friday afternoon, Feb. 3, a contest in interpretative reading of prose works was held in the office of the school nurse at Smith-Cotton. The writings to be read at the district speech festival at Warrensburg were selections read for this contest, and judging was done by Mrs. Sims and James Miller, members of the Smith-Cotton faculty. Worry About Appearance Of US Male

By DOROTHY ROE
Associated Press Women's Editor
It seems everybody is spending a lot of time worrying about the appearance of the American male these days—and high time too, as any American female will agree.

With the current concentration on glamorizing father, there soon will be no excuse for any solvent man going around looking like a refugee from a rummage sale. And perhaps women may reasonably expect that when they dress for dinner their men will do likewise.

Two new organizations are devoted to the sole purpose of improving the dress habits of U. S. males. One is the Men's Fashion Authority, an association of 27 top manufacturers of everything a man wears, from underwear to overcoats and from evening clothes to sports shirts. The other is the American Institute of Men's and Boys' Wear, representing all segments of the men's and boys' wear industry. Both feel that there is large room for improvement, as they naturally would, when you consider the business they're in.

"There are millions of men who feel that it's a mark of distinction to wear exactly the same kind of clothes they wore at college for the next 50 years," says Alfred Shapiro, president and founder of the MFA. "They go around with crew-cuts and so-called Ivy League suits until they die of old age. They are eternal sophomores."

"Then there are the men who go all-out for the casual look, and as a result go to their offices looking as if they were dressed for a long, happy day cleaning out the garage. These are the boys of the sloppy sports coats and unpressed slacks, the unshined shoes and screaming socks."

Shapiro believes, however, that all this can be changed by a little subtle suggestion, in which, of course, the wife or girl friend should play a part.

His theory is that most men pretend indifference to clothes because they feel this is the manly thing to do, when actually they are deeply interested in looking as well as possible. Witness the time most men spend on selecting just the right cut of a collar or color of a necktie. With some well-directed encouragement, Shapiro thinks men will enjoy dressing for the occasion, and will discover that they don't have to be sloppy to be comfortable.

BOARD OF EDUCATION • SEDALIA SCHOOL DISTRICT NO. 200

Wm. F. Brown—President

Harry Brougher—Secretary

Tuesday Is School Day At Polls

There's trouble ahead for Sedalia's $1,800,000 school bond issue if those who would vote for it don't do so by stirring their stumps and going to the polls Tuesday.

Certainly there has been nothing deficient in the effort of school officials to explain the needs of Sedalia's schools. In fact the detailed and sensible program of publicity has set a precedent in matters of public concern about which taxpayers should be informed so they may know the facts about the issues on which they cast their ballot.

Heretofore there has been repeated reluctance or disinterest of voters in expressing themselves at the polls. Sedalia is not unlike other communities in this respect. When a bond issue appears likely of passage those in favor often conclude it unnecessary to go to the polls and support the proposal. Such apathy has defeated many a worthwhile project.

To offset such over-optimism toward the current bond election here are some figures which indicate what may be required in the way of affirmative votes to assure passage.

A check of the last sixteen bond and levy elections in Sedalia reveals an average of 1,600 voting against them. If the same number turns out Tuesday then it means there must be 3,200 affirmative votes to win. That's a big order for the complacent to consider. Then look what happened in last April's levy election to raise teachers' salaries. The negative vote was 2,089. If anything like that happens Tuesday there will have to be 4,178 yes votes to win. That means casting a total of 6,267 ballots, a sizeable manifestation of public enthusiasm.

Those chronic negative voters whose decision is made on the basis of stubborn resistance to anything involving public improvements — if it cuts into their cigaret and whiskey budget to the extent of one pack or one drink a week less—will be at the polls again early Tuesday.

Every community has a segment of chronic oppositionists. Often their ranks are joined by those with pet peeves who distort the perspective of a major project for community advancement.

In the present instance we believe they should rejoin the ranks of progressive thinking Sedalians — that is where they belong, and they know it.

Sedalia has no business marking time any longer in development of an adequate school system to care for the growing needs of our youth. To provide proper room, proper teaching, proper supervision, proper educational and physical, musical and other cultural training is much easier and less costly by far than coping with an inadequate system which encourages juvenile problems resulting in the taxpayers spending hundreds of thousands of dollars trying to rehabilitate youngsters in some reformatory.

Records prove that since a broadened supervised physical education program was inaugurated in Sedalia schools 15 years ago there has been a decrease in major delinquencies in this area.

We have seen the willingness of Sedalians to forge ahead. Each progressive movement marks the community as a better place in which to live. Be assured this attitude is an attraction for those who wish to settle down here and make Sedalia their home; it is good for those who already live here and desire to rear their children in a locality of modern and uncrowded schools.

Now comes the time for our citizens to exercise the privilege of franchise in deciding favorably a momentous issue that will mark Sedalia throughout the state as one which understands its community school needs and has the foresight and willingness to accept the responsibility of providing for them.

Tuesday is School Day at the polls.

Drew Pearson Says—

Ike's Financial Men Worry About Market

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON — While President Eisenhower was sending his "the boom will continue message" to Congress, a little group of men who guide the prosperity of the nation were sitting in a white marble building a few blocks away worrying about the same boom.

The little group of men were the Federal Reserve Board and they were deciding to ease tight credit controls in order to spur a little more inflation into the economic picture and keep the boom from deflating.

In other words, while the President was saying one thing, the Federal Reserve Board was acting as if it was afraid of just the opposite.

This highlights the warning given privately to the President by economic adviser Dr. Arthur Burns that there would be a slump in auto sales this year and a letdown in building construction.

In general also, it's believed by administration economic advisers and by big corporation executives that the seven-year bull market has seen its best days.

One indication is the way in which European speculators are taking their money out of Wall Street. Another is the shifting of investments from motors, housing, farm equipment to utilities and oils.

In brief, the stock market is tired and if the announcement comes that Ike will not run again, it's likely to drop back to its October low.

Brownell Ducks

Senators are still wondering when Attorney General Brownell will descend to come up to Capitol Hill to testify before one of their committees. So far he has ducked out on seven different invitations to testify.

The latest arose during a closed-door session of the Senate Judiciary Committee when Chairman Kilgore, (D-W.Va.) read a letter from deputy attorney general, William Rogers, offering to come himself in place of Brownell regarding the proposal to hire separate counsel to represent the government in prosecuting those guilty of conflicts of interest in the Dixon-Yates case.

Chairman Kilgore was about to accept Rogers' offer when Senator Hennings of Missouri spoke.

"I think, Mr. Chairman," he said, "that it might be well to have the testimony of the attorney general himself. We have wanted his views on constitutional rights, extra judges, juvenile delinquency, anti-monopoly, and several other matters, but so far we have been unable to persuade him to testify."

"Nevertheless I think we should invite him once again to testify on Dixon-Yates."

Kilgore agreed.

"However," suggested Hennings, "I will make you a small wager that we will find the attorney general is either in Texas or Guam when we invite him to testify."

A few days later Senator Kilgore saw Senator Hennings on the Senate floor.

"You win your bet," he said, "we have word from Brownell that he's going to be in Puerto Rico."

Note — Brownell has ducked out on testifying before Senate committees on small business, twice on anti-trust policies, on civil rights, on immigration, and on legal ramifications of Dixon-Yates. Brownell doesn't have to plead the Fifth Amendment. As a cabinet officer he can merely decline to appear, and the Senate can't subpoena him. Remarked Senator Kefauver: "Brownell can dish it out but he can't take it."

Here's a Precedent

Back in depression days it became fashionable in Washington to voice gratitude for a favor with "Thanks a billion!" Since then, not too many men have bothered to count nickels and pennies in the capital.

Refreshing it is, therefore, to find a couple of felines giving a really detailed accounting of what they did with some of the taxpayers' money.

The two gentlemen who broke with recent tradition were Sen. Theodore Green, Rhode Island's aging Democrat, and Pat Holt, staff member of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee. They made foreign-ad tour.

Every cent was set down, from modest passport fees to the cost of their airline tickets. Since the pair visited 17 foreign countries, this was no offhand task.

Let the names of Green and Holt be struck in stone somewhere on the Capitol grounds.

As Sedalia Sees It—

Fiscal Farm Gymnastics May Tilt Balanced Budget

By Joseph A. Dear
Democrat-Capital
Washington Correspondent

here, that just doesn't make sense. It will be more expensive to shore up farm prices this year. Perhaps a billion dollars more than the budget estimate of $1.59 billion.

To this figure must be added the cost of the acreage reduction plan, according to some analysts. If that is so, the budget estimate may be off more than two billion dollars. And the budget would be unbalanced by about that amount.

This program was to be financed by sale of government-owned surplus commodities. In short, this criticism of Administration farm policy.

It has reduced the farm population but not surplus production. The population reduction, he notes, consisted mostly of younger farmers.

The Agriculture Department has not yet suggested an alternative. But since a drastic acreage reduction is considered imperative if consumption and production are to be brought in balance, an alternative must be found.

It is predicted that the most likely alternative will be an Administration request for raise in the borrowing authorization for the Commodity Credit Corporation. It is the government agency that buys surplus farm stuffs.

The CCC borrowing authorization is near the $8 billion mark. Any increase must be approved by Congress. And in a sense, CCC borrowing does increase the public debt. Congress might note that if the CCC borrowing authority is boosted.

Even if the Agriculture Department had not been forced to abandon its financing scheme for acreage reduction, the farm situation might have resulted in an unbalanced budget.

The $400 million surplus foreseen by the President is speculative at best. It assumes Congress will boost postal rates by $400 million, and Congress probably won't. The envisioned surplus also would vanish if the Commodity Credit Corporation has to spend more than $1.6 billion to support farm prices.

That's all the budget earmarks for CCC in the fiscal year of 1957. (It begins next July 1.) But if the past is a guide, this is a mighty underestimate of what CCC will need. In fact, the Administration has consistently underestimated the cost of the farm price support program by about one billion dollars.

For example, in fiscal '55 the budget estimate for CCC was $2.040 billion. But $3.327 billion was actually spent. That was more than a billion dollar overshoot. And in fiscal '56, the budget estimate for CCC was $1.052 billion. Fiscal '56 isn't over, but the estimate has been revised upwards to $2.076 billion.

That's a rising cost pattern. Each year the price support program has cost more — and much more than the budget estimate. Yet for fiscal 1957, the Administration has predicted a less costly operation than last year.

TV Program Emcee Causes Stir in Town

By BOB THOMAS

LAS VEGAS, Nev. — No one has caused as much of a stir in this celebrity-conscious town as a former movie bit player named Hal March.

Usually the patrons of this modern gold gulch will stare briefly at famous faces, then return to the slot machines. But that's not true of dapper, dark-haired March. While we were chatting in the bar of the El Rancho Vegas, a man came up to him and said:

"Hi, Hal—are you as nervous as you look on Tuesday nights?"

March exchanged some pleasantries with the man, a total stranger who left saying, "So long, Hal, see you on Tuesday."

This sort of thing happens all over town, said March, who wasn't complaining a bit. He can remember the times when nobody recognized him.

As most citizens realize, March is the emcee of The $64,000 Question. He was here for a brief visit with Candy Toxton, who is sitting out a six-week stay so she can acquire a Nevada divorce from singer Mel Torme. Candy and Hal plan to marry here Feb. 17, when her term is up.

"She's the gal I waited for all these years," said March, who is 36 and has never wed. "As soon as I saw her, I knew this was it."

March said they will live in New York in an apartment he has bought. Although he was born and reared in San Francisco and spent a large part of his career in Hollywood, he said he doesn't miss California—"except for my friends there." And no wonder. His career never really got off the ground until he went to New York and The $64,000 Question.

His plans for the fall include a Broadway play, "The Brass Section." A veteran of vaudeville, burlesque, TV, radio and films, the stage remains the only medium he hasn't tackled.

Tractor Maintenance Clinic

This last Thursday and Friday, along with several tractor maintenance leaders from Pettis and neighboring counties, I had the privilege to attend one of the finest leader training meetings I have witnessed. Here was a meeting directed to and around leaders problems and techniques in handling a project. It was gratifying to see so many Pettis County leaders in attendance. I'm sure our tractor program will reflect the success of the meeting.

Garden Meeting

Another fine meeting held this past week was the county garden meeting where Mr. Arthur Gaus, University of Missouri garden specialist, discussed establishment and maintenance of the farm garden. He suggested at this meeting a couple of new varieties that some of the 4-H garden project members might want to try. They are the Moreton hybrid tomato and the Blue Lake (white seeded) pole bean. For those that have wilt problems with their tomatoes, Gaus suggested trying a Missouri variety S-28. This is a wilt resistant variety and has a high quality fruit.

4-H Soil Tests

The time of year has been reached where all 4-H projects

plaining the cutting, weight or points, coloring, and clarity.

Programs of black with gold diamond rings were at each place. Registration for the convention was handled by Mrs. Doreen Craig and Mrs. Lavina Coontz, Councilors for the 6th District.

The Bulletin Magazine for this winter meeting carried the picture of Mrs. Doreen Craig as cover girl. Tribute was paid her for her work and length of service in her employment.

Mrs. Bertha Rose Welch served as general chairman.

based on soil fertility such as garden and field crops should be given serious consideration as to the fertility level of the land upon which these projects will be carried. This level can be determined only by taking a soil test. Just because the area yielded well last year is not proof that the area has a high fertility level. It may also not be economical feasible to put on a lot of fertilizer because you feel that the area is of low fertility. A soil test will give you a picture of the balance of nutrients in the soil and maybe you need only to add one nutrient; hence, a complete fertilizer applied would be wasteful. I suggest to boys in field crops to leave a representative check strip where they do not treat the soil then at harvest time you can set a dollar and cents value on the benefits received. Be sure that you take your sample properly; if you are in doubt about this, drop in the office and pick up the bulletin telling you how to take a soil sample.

There Are Several Quick Ways to Mark Patterns for Clothes

Every mark on the paper pattern you use can guide you in cutting out a garment and later in fitting it together. There are several quick methods of marking. You can mark with tailor's chalk or with dressmaker's carbon and a tracing wheel. Both are quick accurate methods. For some fabrics tailor's tacks, made with needle and thread, are the best means of marking. There are two kinds of tailor's chalk—both made in small flat squares. The wax kind is used for wool only and is usually white in color. The chalk kind is used for all other fabrics.

For white fabrics, use light blue chalk; otherwise use contrasting colors. Dressmaker's carbon paper especially prepared for marking fabrics is often used with a tracing wheel. As a rule, white or yellow is best. Slip the carbon paper between the pattern and wrong side of the fabric. A blunt tracing wheel will make a well-defined dotted line. Never use typewriter carbon paper. It stains the fabric.

Arthur Caus Calls For Closer Look At Your Garden Area

Arthur Gaus, agricultural extension garden specialist, at the county garden meeting Tuesday, told the 40 4-H leaders, extension club foods chairmen and garden enthusiasts that 1956 should be a year that the garden area should be given even a closer look than it has in the past.

On the average farm garden, if not enough vegetables are grown, the family just doesn't get enough—thence a nutritional point of view must be taken. Also the garden must be evaluated from a dollar and cents viewpoint. Under the present return from farm investments it takes $3 gross to return $1 net—so that every dollar saved is equivalent to $3 grossed.

Gaus cited a case of a Lincoln County family using a two acre garden. A plot 100 by 50 feet (one-ninth of an acre) produced 365 quarts of vegetables canned or frozen, six bushels of white potatoes stored, two bushels of sweet potatoes stored, plus a seven to eight-month use of all the fresh vegetables that the family wanted and needed. The cost of this garden was a little less than $20, excluding labor.

On the subject of labor, he said the more you put into it the more you get out of it. In the case cited, the Lincoln County family used 75 man hours of labor excluding harvesting and produced 90 per cent of their vegetable needs on the farm. The average family of four in 1954 in the north central states needed $262 worth of vegetables to meet their needs, of which $156 were purchased, quite a difference from the case cited.

Vegetable gardens vary widely in cost of production but those that run high are usually placed there by "gadget gardening" or use of high priced gadgets.

The woman, an American tourist, asked her husband the meaning of a Mexican slang word, and a patron at a nearby table took violent exception to its use.

The couple paid $6.25 in fines and $30 for new eyeglasses for a man who tried to break up the fight and was hit in the face with a beer bottle.

On getting a garden established there are several factors to be taken into consideration such as location, fertilizers, insects and diseases. On location he said to pick a sunny spot away from trees. Vegetables need lots of sun so if possible select a site where the sun will be able to hit the garden most if the day. If you have to plant near trees and are forced to water, remember to water the tree roots too. The garden should be located near the house or chore route so that it can be viewed every day. The ground should be nearly level and have enough pitch to let run off of surface water away gently.

On fertilization, Gaus said always to start with a soil test if the garden hasn't been tested in the last three or four years and then apply the basic needs as shown by the test. When planting the seed, use a starter either in a band a little to one side and below the seed or a broadcast application worked into the upper two to three inches of the soil. Use a planting guide to determine amounts, also for amounts of nitrogen and time to apply as a side dressing.

Gaus also discussed insects and control measures and new varieties of garden seed that will be on the market this year.

Practice 8C Is Based On Use of Limestone, Fertilizer on Surface

Practice 8C in the 1956 Agricultural Conservation Program is applicable only where fair, but low producing stands of grass are on the land. It is based upon the demonstration that surface applications of limestone and fertilizers on certain land will improve grass stands and production, implement the establishment of certain legumes and increase forage production. In drouth years the legume seedings may fail but the unmanaged grass stands will furnish some grazing. Reseeding the legume is a minor cost item in case of a failure.

One important factor in successfully establishing legumes is al-

BPW Club Members Hear Talk on Rural Activities

Members of the Business and Professional Women's Club learned a great deal about the many things being done by the women living in the rural area of Pettis County and were surprised at the beautiful things that had been made by them at the dinner meeting held Thursday night at Bothwell Hotel.

The program was under the direction of the education and vocational committee, of which Miss Opal O'Briant is chairman, and they found it to be a program of real education. Miss O'Briant is the Pettis County home agent.

Miss O'Briant was the speaker and took for her subject: "Farm Training Class Room." She told how the organization first began in Pettis County when in 1906-07 a group of Sedalia businessmen became interested in the agriculture in Pettis County and organized what was called a Booster Club. In 1912, she said, this group and the Chamber of Commerce brought the first county agent to Pettis County.

Mrs. Harry Sneed then attended a corn show in Columbia and, with the idea that the women should have an organization, too, approached T. C. Wilson of the University about it. The first home-makers Club was then organized, Miss O'Briant said, with Mrs. Sneed as president, and by the end of the year there were 150 members. It was called the Homemakers Club and, because it had no other place to meet, met in the women's lounge at the courthouse. The first home agent was Miss Mildred Hinton who went about over Pettis County in a horse and buggy.

Then the women began forming little groups in their own communities where they had several projects. Because of World War I a project many of them worked on was knitting sweaters for the boys in service. In 1928, Miss O'Briant said, Mrs. Claire Montgomery came here as home agent for the extension clubs that had been formed and there have been many of them since that time. There is an advisory committee of two persons from each township, she said, for the extension work with most of it paid for by the University of Missouri and part of it coming from the county court. The subject material comes from the University of Missouri and books on the various subjects are available at the Extension Office for anyone interested.

Each extension group selects its own project and they follow a plan each year for their program. The program includes clothing, food preparation and home management. The programs are planned around a standard of achievement and must reach that standard to receive their certificate. The many things made by the women are exhibited on Achievement Day. Last year, however, they had a chicken barbecue at Liberty Park followed by a style show at the Fox theatre. Last year, too, they had a county wide health project at which they made more than 6,000 cancer dressings. In 1954 they each gave the price of a dozen eggs and contributed $250 for Mercy Hospital.

Miss O'Briant introduced Glenda Rhoads from the Quisenberry 4-H Club who gave an interesting talk on her trip to Chicago which was an award as one of the winners in 4-H club work. Glenda said that

Michael Wolfel Family Back Home From Visit In Germany

Mr. and Mrs. Michael Wolfel and their daughter, Eleanor, 1215 East Seventh, have returned home from Germany where they have been since November. They wanted to be there for Christmas and also for the big celebration on Jan. 10, honoring Mrs. Wolfel's father, Andreas Liebel, on his 90th birthday anniversary.

The whole town of Schwabach, Bavaria, which is about the size of Sedalia, joined in the celebration for Mr. Liebel. He had always been active in civic affairs and organizations, some of which he helped to organize, and all day long there were callers, and gifts, money, wine, paintings and many other things were brought to him. The children, too, shared in the day by bringing him poems and reciting pieces for him. There was basket after basket of cards. It was a very wonderful day for him as well as his family.

On the last day of November the Wolfels went over on the USS United States to Le Havre, France, to Paris and then to Germany. They cruised around in Germany. Christmas was very much like it is here, said Mrs. Wolfel. The cities were decorated, some even more elaborately than in this country. She loved the markets which she remembered so well, and with Christmas they were filled with toys. Then there was so much of the thing that is dear to the hearts of the German people—good food.

Mr. and Mrs. Wolfel both were born and raised in Germany. In 1920 they were married there and came to the United States in 1922.

Ionia Tops Goal
In March of Dimes

Ionia surpassed its March of Dimes goal of $40 when it collected a total of $54 Tuesday night despite bad weather. The business houses had contributed $20 and another $34 was collected by Mrs. Roy Neil, Mrs. Max Elliott and Mrs. Louis Smart on Tuesday night.

Democrat Class Ads Get Results

This is the first time Wolfel has been back to Germany since he left there and found that his old home had been completely destroyed by the war.

Mrs. Wolfel felt terrible to see the destruction in the German cities but relatives told her it was not nearly so bad as it had been. Much had been rebuilt that had been ruined through the war.

Mrs. Wolfel had been back only once, and had taken their two sons with her. It was 22-year-old Eleanor's first trip to Germany and she loved it. Eleanor is a registered nurse and if she could have arranged things she would have stayed for awhile to work in her profession. If Eleanor thought Germany was pretty at this season, Mrs. Wolfel said, it is too bad she could not see it in the summer.

Schwabach, Mrs. Wolfel said, is about twice the size it was when she last saw it. Her father's home still stands, although a bridge nearby was blown up. It was nice, said Mrs. Wolfel, seeing her father, her nieces and nephews and many of her husband's people. She went all around the familiar spots in the neighborhood and visited old neighbors, and all the many people that gathered at her father's home for his birthday. She saw relatives of a number of Sedalians while there, too.

Among some of the things she brought home was some of the poetry written by the father of her nephew's widow. Her nephew had been killed in the war and the widow and her father live in the eastern section. When the father was past 60, he started writing poetry and wrote a poem for the Wolfels' visit to Germany and one for the birthday anniversary of Mrs. Wolfel's father.

The West German section in which Schwabach is located seems to be prospering, she said, and the Germans are small. You can certainly tell the American cars when you see them coming, though, she said, they look so big.

It was a wonderful visit, Mrs. Wolfel said, and grand to be back most 34 years. Germany still is home again, for, although they home.

HAPPY PEOPLE EVERYWHERE HAVE FOUND IT—WHY NOT YOU?

HEALTHFUL WAY TO BREAK
THE LAXATIVE DRUG HABIT*ALL-BRAN AND MILK—NATURE'S GREAT FOOD COMBINATION

For relief from constipation due to insufficient bulk

Important food essentials for fitness

Is the laxative drug habit becoming an increasingly annoying and unpleasant problem with you, as it has with so many adults?

Then here is a simple fact that may come as welcome news to you: Millions of grown men and women like yourself have found the answer to their constipation problem without resorting to harsh purgatives that drain the system—without the use of habit-forming drugs. They have simply changed to an appetizing and nourishing breakfast serving of Kellogg's All-Bran with milk.

How is it that Kellogg's All-Bran can succeed in so many cases where drugs and chemicals fail? For this one reason. Such preparations, intended only for relief of temporary stoppage, contain no bulk. Yet, lack of bulk is one of the commonest causes of constipation. So, because All-Bran provides all the good food bulk you need daily, it brings gentle, lasting relief from irregularity.

You may be interested to know, too, that All-Bran is one of the most nutritious breakfast foods you can eat.

W. K. Kellogg, who originated All-Bran over 40 years ago, made certain of this. Mr. Kellogg discovered that the outer layers of the whole wheat grain were not only a fine natural laxative food but rich in nutritive value as well. He found, too, a special way of milling the whole grain so as not to lose any of its natural laxative effectiveness or nutrition. That is why Kellogg's All-Bran supplies you with important vitamins, minerals and high-quality protein—the kind of nourishment you need to keep fit.

Little wonder that Kellogg's All-Bran, the original, has grown to be the most widely accepted and used of all bran cereals.

Why don't you try the safe, gentle, natural laxative cereal that has helped literally millions? Kellogg's All-Bran. Eat a half cup of Kellogg's All-Bran every morning for just 10 days. If it doesn't bring you satisfying gentle relief from constipation, you get double your money back. That's a promise from Battle Creek, Mich.

Women Use More Energy Than Needed

Most homemakers are interested in ways to reduce both the amount of cleaning in their homes and the effort necessary to do it. Studies by the American Heart Association show that many women use twice the energy necessary to do their household tasks.

By looking ahead and making a plan for cleaning, you can make your work easier and more interesting. The plan, including a schedule in writing of things to be done, should be a flexible one since cleaning usually must be fitted in with other household tasks and since the frequency of cleaning varies with conditions.

An annual spring and fall house cleaning may have certain advantages. However, too often it leaves the homemaker physically and emotionally exhausted. More and more women are distributing cleaning jobs over a period of time by including some special cleaning with the regular weekly cleaning.

By planning, much dirt can be kept out of the house. Hard surfaced walks, door mats, and scrapers help cut down on dirt brought into a house.

Amount of time in cleaning can be reduced by adequate storage. Good storage places for clothing, sewing supplies, tools and personal possessions helps to prevent clutter which has to be removed before cleaning starts. Children can be encouraged to care for their clothing, toys, and books when storage is planned and made available for their things.

Wastebaskets in various parts of the house encourage immediate disposal of scraps and wastes. Hampers for dirty clothing help keep bedrooms and bathrooms neat.

Walls painted with washable paint, hard-surfaced floor coverings, and some fabrics are easier to care for than others.

The kind of equipment used plays an important part in making certain tasks easier and safer. In selecting equipment, buy handles long enough to make frequent bending unnecessary. A small table on casters or a market basket can be used to take cleaning supplies about the room or from one room to another.

For tasks such as washing windows and woodwork, safety as well as fatigue should be considered. A sturdy step ladder with an attached shelf to hold the container of water is good to have in any home.

Comfortable shoes and clothing should be worn when cleaning and frequent short rest periods between cleaning tasks help prevent excessive fatigue.

Homemakers should sit to work when possible. A lap board, low tasks easier. Proper working heights prevents stooping or raising the arms unnaturally while working.

Electricity has made a great contribution toward making house work easier. Good light on all work areas makes work more pleasant. Washing machines, irons, dryers, dishwashers, vacuum cleaners with their attachments, and other electrical equipment put to good use save homemakers time and energy.

A family bulletin board may be a useful reminder to each member of the family as to what they can do toward making housework easier.

11th Annual 4-H Clinic Is Success

While snow and slick roads held the attendance down somewhat, the 11th annual Tractor Clinic for 4-H project leaders held this last Thursday and Friday was very successful. These clinics are conducted by the Missouri Agricultural Extension Service, the Standard Oil Co. and the farm implement companies with the expressed purpose of training 4-H tractor leaders. The general slogan of the 4-H tractor program is "Better Care, Not Repair," and this slogan was predominant throughout the clinic.

The first part of the clinic was devoted to farm machinery safety. Most of this session was devoted to demonstrations which told the safety story and also gave the 4-H leaders some ideas that could be carried out by their clubs. C. N. Hinkel, Standard Oil Co., gave some very impressive demonstrations using toy tractors that brought home very clearly many of the causes of farm tractor accidents.

The clinic was set up on a discussion and workshop technique whereby a phase of the work would be discussed and then the group would apply the discussion by breaking up into work groups and going to individual tractors to review the discussion.

The tractor clinic covered safety, structure of engines, lubrication, oil systems, clean air, carburetion, and ignition systems. These subjects were covered fully and training given on the various tractors.

On Thursday night a banquet was given for those attending the clinic and cooperating implement dealers at the First Methodist Church. At this dinner the 4-H leaders reported on their project groups and the state and national tractor programs were discussed. Jay Taylor, Standard Oil Co., showed an interesting travel film to conclude this dinner meeting.

The 4-H leaders who attended this clinic have received some of the finest leader training that could be conceived at this clinic and the reflections of this clinic should show up in the club year ahead.

Choir From Minnesota Will Sing at Marshall On Wednesday Night

From the great Bach motets to the simple, sweet folk melodies of several nations, the Concordia Choir of Moorhead, Minnesota, will lead the audience from one age to another in a choral singing at a concert in Marshall High School Auditorium on Feb. 8.

Paul J. Christiansen, director of this famous ensemble always includes representative works of Bach and pre-Bach composers, because "Not since the time of Palestrina and Bach have the truly great composers been so devoted to the art of church music. Judged by any standards, the works of these men stand on their own merits as creative art, perfect in form and remarkable in inventive imagination," he says.

Records kept on 124 calves in one beef herd indicated that February and March calves were larger at weaning time even though they made six per cent lower gains than April calves.

On the basis of cow's ages the calves of 23 6-year-old cows made eight per cent faster gains than did calves from 20 5-year-old and 24 4-year-old cows.

Records on a herd of 57 pigs from seven sows showed gains costing $8.04 per hundred weight when running on alfalfa pasture even when most of the feed was purchased. The sow's feed raised the costs to $10.70 per hundred weight which leaves little margin with present prices. ($1.63 corn was used.)

Gavilan Plans Climb Back Toward Title

LONDON, Feb. 4—Kid Gavilan believes he's still the greatest welterweight fighter in the world—and next Tuesday he starts his campaign to convert the unbelievers.

He is matched against Britain's unbeaten Peter Waterman in a 10-round at London's Harringay Arena. And the Cuban Kid has let it be known that he aims to slaughter the fair-haired Waterman.

Even during training Gavilan's confidence flowed with every skip of the rope. He skipped to his own singing of this calypso:

"I call myself Kid Gavilan, I'm here to fight Peter Waterman, he's very fast on his feet, I'll knock him into the street."

But the former world welterweight champion is leaving nothing to chance. He arrived in Britain Jan. 24—and immediately went into strict training.

Americans Tied For Fourth Place In Overall Standings In Olympics

CORTINA D' AMPEZZO, Italy, Feb. 4.—(P)—Soviet Russia climaxed its domination of the winter Olympic games by cutting down Canada 2-0 for the Olympic hockey championship tonight and the surprising U. S. team won the silver medal for second place with a 9-4 vengeance victory over Czechoslovakia.

Dick Dougherty, a GI from International Falls, Minn., who was one of the University of Minnesota's greatest stars, pulled a three-goal "hat trick" in the final period to put the skids under the Czech team, which had upset the Yanks in a preliminary tournament.

Russia, ending a Canadian hockey monopoly broken only once before in the last 36 years, wound up the tournament unbeaten with five straight victories.

The United States held a 4-1 mark with Canada following in third place with 3-2. Then followed Sweden 1-3, Czechoslovakia 1-4 and Germany 0-4 in that order. Sweden and Germany tied 1-1 in their final games.

It was a bitter blow to the favored Canadians, who had been strong favorites to take the hockey crown. They didn't win a gold medal in the games, which end tomorrow with ski jumping on Italia hill.

In other championship events today, Franz Kaps, a 46-year-old Swiss chauffeur who said it was his final competitive race, won the four-man bobsled title with two more neck-risking runs down the crumbling Tofana chute and a quartet of hardy Russian skiers snapped a longtime Scandinavian monopoly by winning the 40-kilometer cross-country relay.

The two gold medals today, making a cluster of six, boosted Russia's team honors. Austria was second with 78½ and others tapered off from there.

The United States, with five points in hockey and four in the four-man bobsled on the brilliant third place finish of Art Tyler of Rochester, N. Y., went into a tie with Switzerland for fourth place with 54½. Tyler also announced his retirement after the race.

The ski jumps tomorrow can't produce a serious challenger to the Russian over-all lead. The ski jumping titles traditionally are the property of the Finns, Swedes and Norwegians.

The American hockey team was jubilant over its surprise finish. "Everyone picked us for fourth or fifth," said Coach John Mariucci of Minneapolis. "But we fooled 'em."

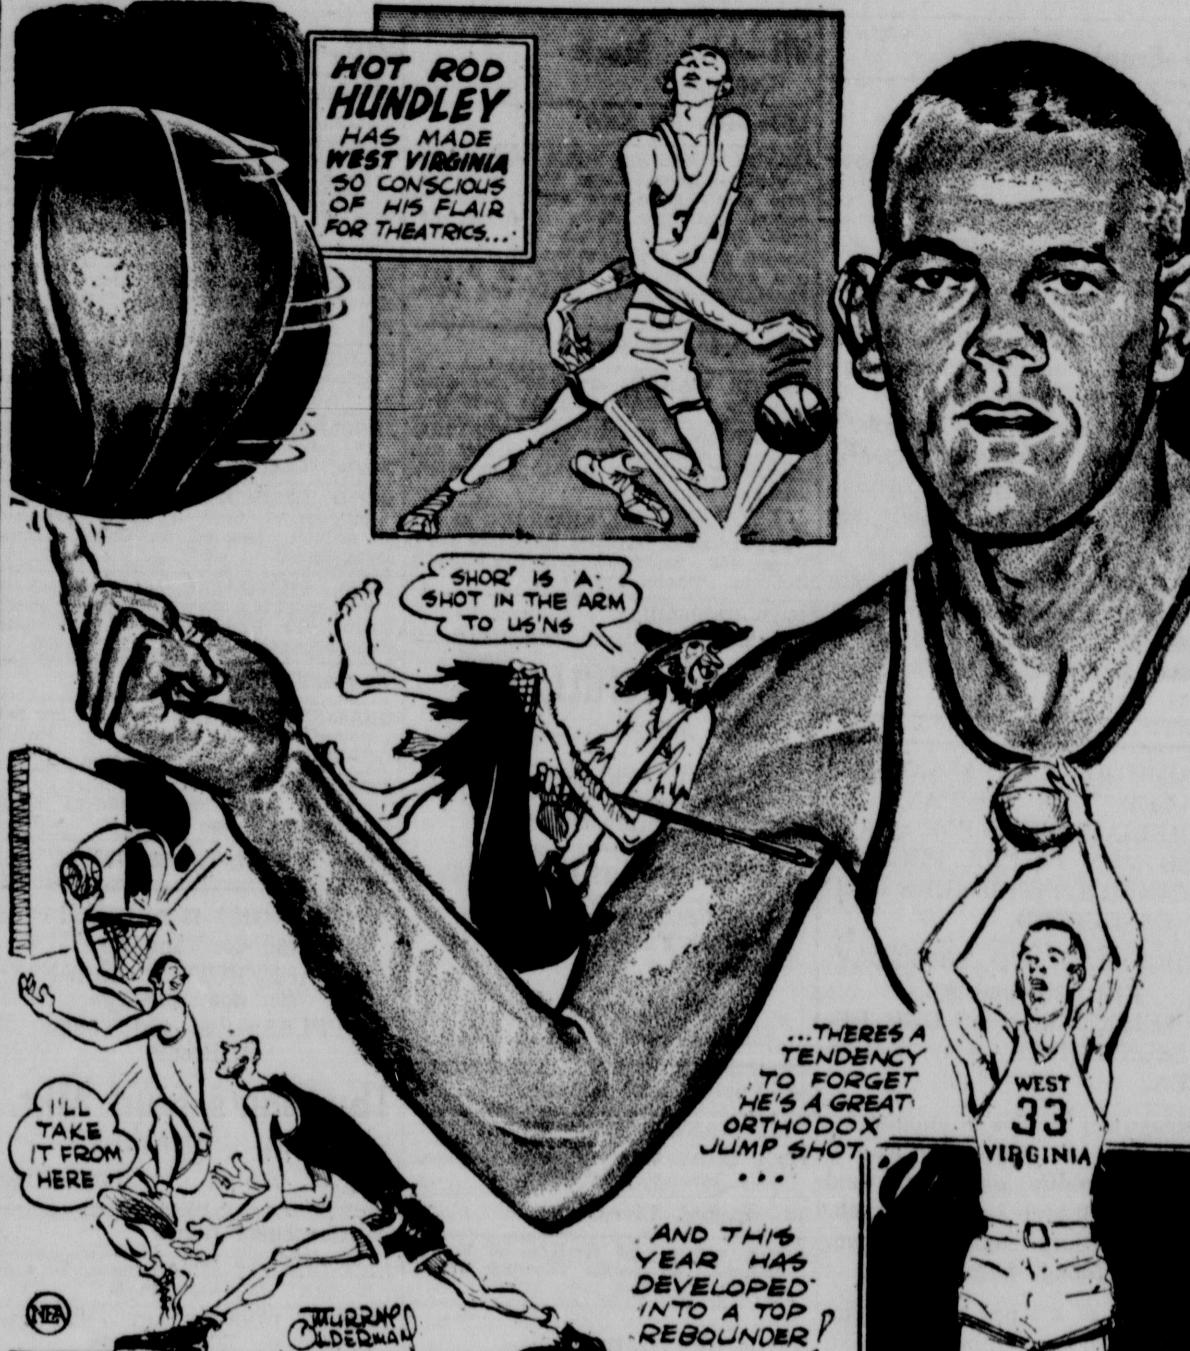

Dougherty was happy over his three last period goals but he said, "I finally got going but it was a little too late."

After beating the Czechs, the Americans sat in the stands and cheered loudly for their North American brothers.

"I'd rather have finished third than to have had the Russians win," said Willard Okola, Eveleth, Minn., goalie who didn't play today.

Refuse To Boost Minimum Salary For Baseball Players

NEW YORK, Feb. 4.—Major league baseball players were rebuffed again today when the club owners refused to boost their minimum salary and re-affirmed a previous statement that the sale of world series television and radio rights was the province of the commissioner.

The players, turned down on both points last December, had sought to have the minimum salary increased from $6,000 to $7,000 and also wanted full information on negotiations for a new world series TV contract.

The owners, however, did approve the appointment of a three-man committee in each league to meet with the players' representatives in a review of the present salary structure, including the unlimited maximum standards.

And Commissioner Ford Frick said he would consult with the pension committee before a new contract is completed.

In other action the leagues established a Cy Young trophy to be awarded to the most valuable pitcher in each league.

CARACAS, Venezuela, Feb. 4.—

A 30-man commission on international relations and trade from Kansas City, Mo., went sightseeing in Caracas.

The players, on both points last December, had sought to have the minimum salary increased from $6,000 to $7,000 and also wanted full information on negotiations for a new world series TV contract.

The owners, however, did approve the appointment of a three-man committee in each league to meet with the players' representatives in a review of the present salary structure, including the unlimited maximum standards.

The exploration of this new wealth, along with development of associated industries, would give the Soviet Union what would amount to a whole new industrial system in previously under developed regions.

Patrol Gives Some Facts On Accidents

If you can start, steer, and stop a motor vehicle correctly you may be classed as a driver. Thinking of driving in this way makes it seem rather simple, but the Missouri Highway Patrol has come up with some figures that will set your mind to wondering whether driving is so simple after all.

First of all the figures show that 1,066 persons were killed in motor vehicle accidents last year on Missouri highways and streets and nearly all of these deaths were the results of bad starting, steering or stopping because basically that is about all there is to driving.

One out of every three of these deaths occurred in Ran Off Roadway accidents. It would seem that steering is a simple matter and that almost any driver would be able to stay on the roadway. The reason for running off the roadway, of course, is that drivers fail to give full attention to the driving.

Superintendent of the Missouri

Highway Patrol, Col. Hugh H. Waggoner said, "Although driving consists basically of starting, steering and stopping, safe driving is no simple matter as is drastically proven by our traffic toll last year. Safe driving depends upon the driver giving complete attention to the job of starting, steering and stopping. He must have the ability to do these things and the good judgement to do them correctly."

job at hand and they drive at excessive speeds.

Any driver that can see and has the good judgment to regulate his speed so that he has control of his vehicle should never be bothered by Run Off Roadway accidents, yet, they resulted in the deaths of 344 persons and injuries to hundreds of others last year in Missouri.

Collisions with fixed objects accounted for 48 deaths, and 159 deaths in collisions with pedestrians. Collisions of two or more vehicles took the greatest toll with 440 fatalities. Thirty nine were killed in collisions of motor vehicles and railroad trains and 36 from all other types of collisions. Most of these collisions could have been avoided by good steering and stopping.

The resolution was offered by Circuit Judge Henry A. Riederer of Kansas City, chairman of the bar's juvenile courts and laws committee. His committee concluded that some of Missouri's laws on children and youths are behind the times.

Frightened Ferdinand Finally Climbs Down From His High Perch

ST. LOUIS, Feb. 4.—Ferdinand the frightened cat, after 48 hours on a lofty perch, came down to earth today with the help of a professional tree climber.

The cat climbed an oak tree on the grounds of the Military Personnel Records Center two days ago while being chased by a dog and Mrs. Alan Smith of suburban Overland, its owner, called for help.

Humane Society agents made two futile efforts to rescue Ferdinand, apparently afraid to move about 60 feet up in the tree.

"I haven't had a failure in five years," said field agent James Ray as he refused to give up hope.

Roy Atkins, a tree specialist, used a 50-foot ladder and safety ropes to reach the perch today. He snared Ferdinand and brought him to earth.

Ferdinand then went home to a a banquet of milk and sausage.

His Favorite Investment!

"It's the wisest motor car investment I ever made!"

"I've owned a great many makes through the years, but Cadillac wins my vote as the finest investment of them all."

"In my book, it is the best dollar investment on the highway today!"

We can't tell you how many times we've heard it. In fact, Cadillac's value and economy have become favorite topics of conversation among Cadillac owners everywhere.

And their sentiments are based on some very substantial facts about the "car of cars."

First of all, there's the economy of buying a Cadillac. Many models are actually priced competitively with the "medium-priced" makes.

Then there is the economy of operating a Cadillac. Cadillac's gasoline mileage is simply phenomenal for a car of its size and stature.

Book, 'Story Of Dorothea Dix' Is At Regional Library

"Angel of Mercy, the Story of Dorothea Lynde Dix" by Rachel Baker was written for older boys and girls but it is the sort of biography that many adults in the Boonslick Regional Library area will read. Dorothea Dix was a crusader all her life, truly an angel of mercy for the insane, and the sick and wounded in the Civil War. Frail and desperately ill, she still managed to do what no one else had done, to establish the concept "that the sick are the wards of the state." She was personally responsible for more than 30 state hospitals in this country for the mentally ill and crusades for hospitals in Scotland and other parts of the world.

"Toward Mental Health," another Public Affairs pamphlet, is perhaps a better one for the average person because it gives a good overview of problems connected with nervousness, mental stability and crack-ups. These and other materials are available from the Boonslick Regional Library.

Five Main Improvements Are Needed at S-C High School

NEW CLASSROOMS—Drawings show how four classrooms can be added in the main high school building. Note that connecting corridors between east and west wings will be added. Roof repairs will be made in the north (older) section of this building.

New Roof Is Intended, Too—

Vocational Agriculture, Home Economics Building and New Classrooms Included

Sedalia's school improvement program, recommended by the Board of Education, includes under Proposition I, $225,716 for expansion and repairs at Smith-Cotton Junior-Senior High School. This will provide:

New vocational agriculture classroom and shops $52,750. New home economics classrooms $75,960. Four new general classrooms $69,136. New school maintenance shop, with additional bus garage and storage space $13,647. A new roof on the old part of the main high school building $14,223. The first impression gained by a visitor to the high school is the large number of young people it holds. "Teeming" is hardly too strong a word to use. When classes change, corridors and stairways are jammed. Once classes get under way, the visitor who walks down the hall sees classroom after classroom that appears to have every available desk occupied. Even the empty hallways seem to hum with activity.

Increased Enrollment

"Our enrollment this year, in the five junior and senior high classes, is 1,120—an increase of 159 in four years," says Principal Forrest L. Drake. "We are using every classroom now. Even so, our freshmen classes are larger than the state recommends. And—in four years, we will have 400 additional students, or a total of more than 1,500."

These statistics explain and highlight the problem faced by Sedalians in the future of the high school. They also explain why the problem is being faced now.

The improvement program recommended by the Board of Education is sound and conservative, in that it simply takes care of the problem as it presently exists, according to Board President William F. Brown. Additional classrooms provided in the program are all needed to make room for students who will enroll four years from now. This winter, these students are attending Sedalia elementary schools, and can easily be counted.

The existing high school building has space for the addition of four new classrooms, and these are provided as shown on the building plans. They will be on the second and third floors, above the present boiler room, in what is now vacant space.

On each floor level, a new corridor will be included to give access to the new classrooms. These will also connect with north-south corridors in the present wings. Students who wish to get from the east to the west part of the building, or vice versa, will not have to go back to the front of the building and around, as is now necessary.

Further new classrooms, other than the four just described, must be located in a separate wing or building. Plans provide this expansion in the form of a new, modern, one-story vocational building, just east of the cafeteria. One wing of the new building will be devoted to Home Economics, and the other to Vocational Agriculture—both basic subjects of considerable practical value.

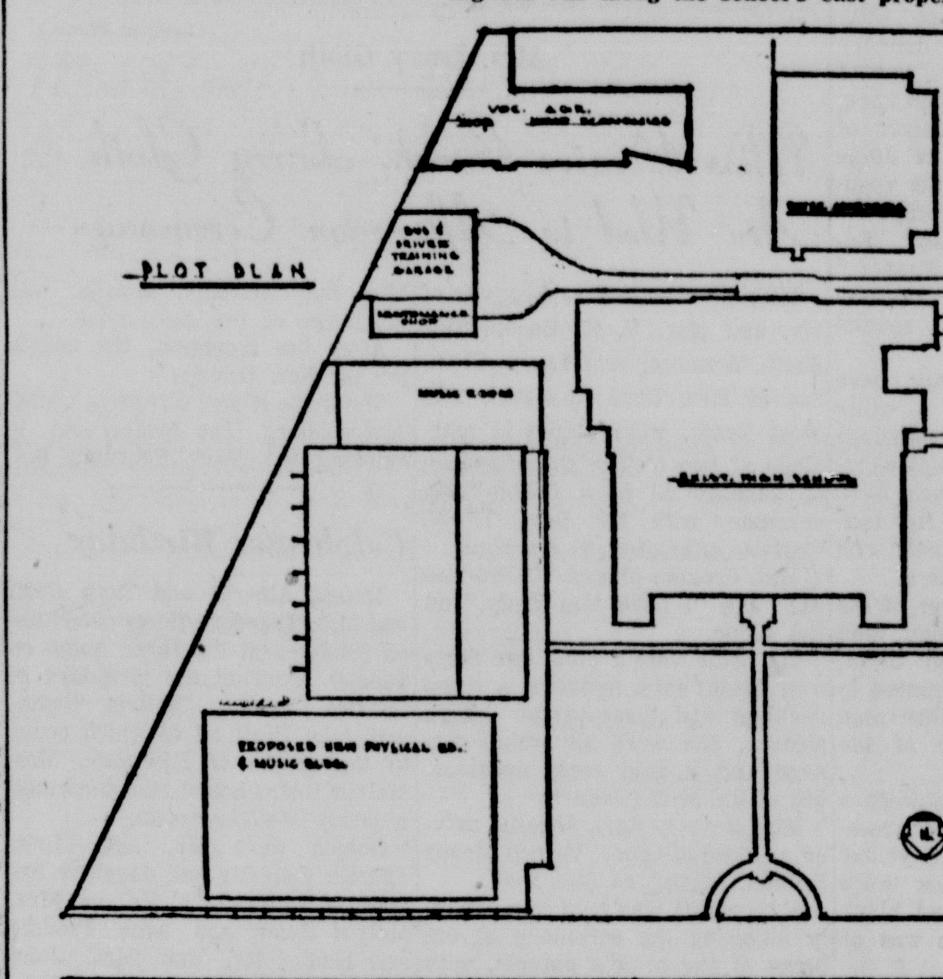

New Building to Help

When the new building is completed, three classrooms in the main high school, now used by home economics classes, will be vacated for general use. The vocational agriculture wing will hold enough students to fill two classrooms which will include a shop and classroom, and so will have the effect of adding two more classrooms to the high school.

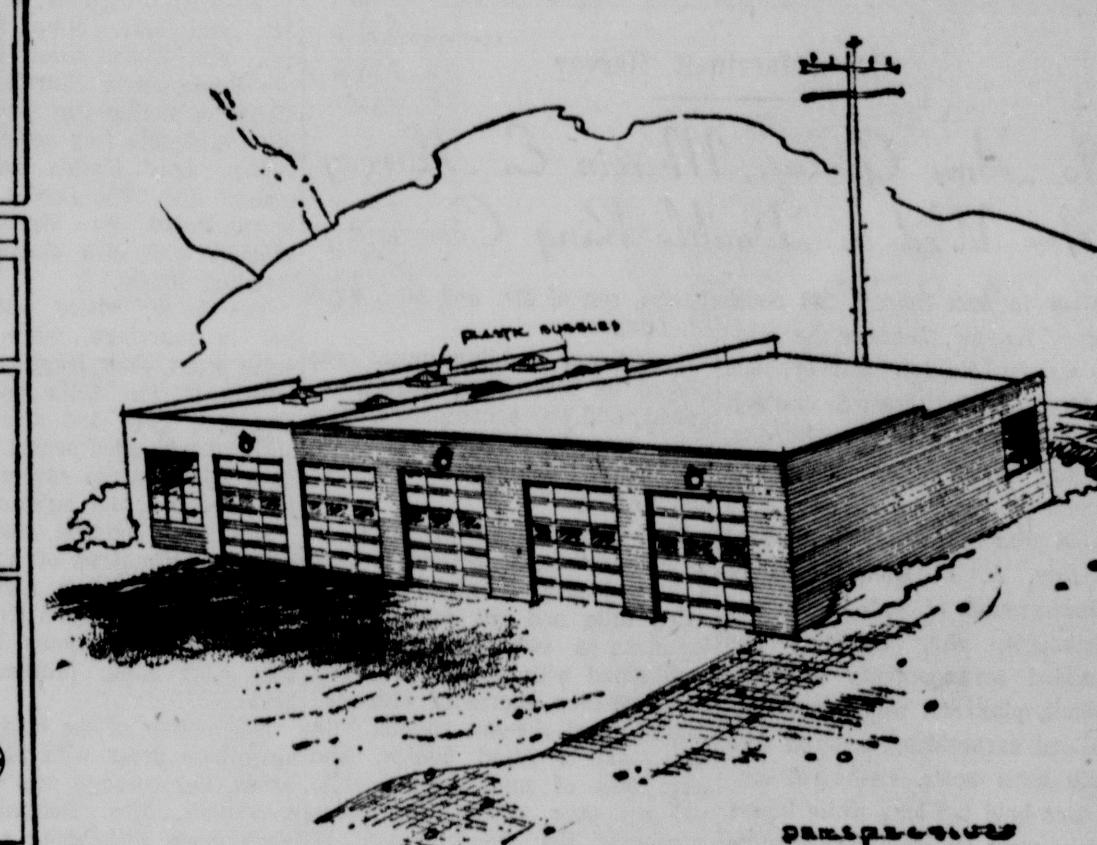

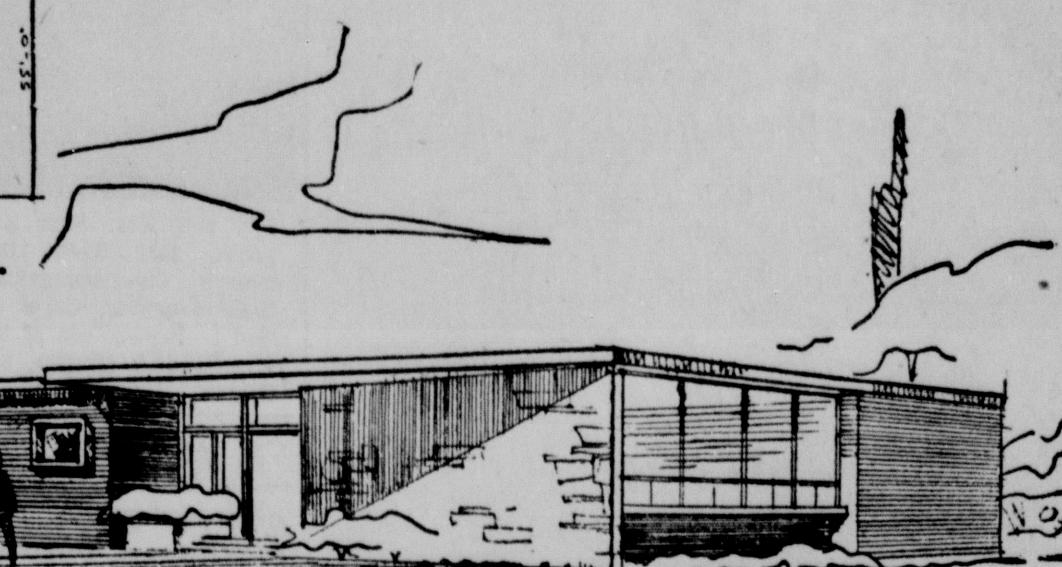

Smith-Cotton High School has a special problem in that there is no separate school maintenance shop. Maintenance employees have to use the shop facilities in the industrial arts classes, and do their work while student classes are going on. This is not desirable, because it ties down equipment needed by the students. Also, when the instructor talks to the students, the school employees must either stop their machines and be idle, VOCATIONAL AG, HOME ECONOMICS—Floor plan and architect's perspective drawing of building to house home economics and vocational agriculture classes. This building can be erected on the present school grounds, east of the cafeteria. The slanting wall of the vocational agriculture building will run along the school's east property line.

SHOP AND GARAGE—New school maintenance shop, and additional garage and storage space, will be provided by an addition to the present school bus garage. Addition is shaded. Present garage unshaded, in above drawing.

Detroit Gives Huge Vote Of Confidence to Papers

By JAMES G. CROSSLEY

DETROIT—(NEA)—The people of this city have just given a tremendous vote of confidence to their newspapers.

After 46 days of strike, the three papers are publishing again, making their daily visits to more homes than ever before.

Instead of finding out the papers were expendable, the public welcomed them back by gobbling them up at an increased rate of 16 per cent the first day. By the end of the first week or so, it appeared that fondness had made the absence seem longer and the papers were headed for record highs.

In many ways, Christmas appeared to have been held up until papers were on the street again.

The newspaperboys were getting their delayed Yuletide gifts when they resumed their calls.

Advertising reflected the anxiety of the stores. "It's Never Too Late to Say Merry Christmas," said one ad.

First issues carried no ads. They were devoted to summaries of the news the readers had missed. There were full pages of obituaries. Comics resumed with summaries of the stories during the blackout. One of the papers, in addition, printed 24 pages of the back daily comic strips as part of an 80-page paper.

The city surveyed the staggering cost of the strike. It was estimated that employees lost two and a half million dollars in pay. Only the Detroit News kept the employees who were disregarding the picketing on the payroll. Other papers closed down completely. The loss in advertising was estimated at eight million dollars.

A heading, "Hurrah! We're Back in Print," on one of the first ads reflected the feeling of the merchants. Department store sales had been headed for the peaks, up 12 per cent over the previous period until the strike started. They took an estimated 10 per cent shellacking, at the very least.

Part of it was due to customers who didn't know what they wanted cluttering up the stores, just looking. "You can't move," one lady complained in a letter to her then-silent newspaper.

The Polish Daily News is again being printed mostly in Polish. It reflected one of the whimsical aspects of the strike. The Polish daily had leaped to the breach, devoted a section to news printed in English and raised its circulation from 40,000 to 150,000.

A lot of other things were back to normal. This included a little old lady who had written in asking her paper what she was going to do since she always used it to read herself to sleep."

Even the police felt better. They had been baffled since Dec. 1 by one particular double murder.

They now hope "some reader will come forward to fill in some gaps for a normal life.

Politics, both in the state's capital at Lansing and suburban Hamtramck began to erupt again. During the period of disrupted communications a congressional election was held in the 13th District. Fewer than 20 per cent of the registered voters cast ballots.

A number of public projects had to be delayed. Bids could not be advertised.

The Humane Society began to clear out its overcrowded kennels as dog-adoption items reappeared in the papers.

Sales of recorder tapes were back to normal. There had been a growing fad of recording newscasts in order to play them back for other members of the family.

All the letter writers were dashingly off messages to their papers. Milkmen are happy over resumed weather forecasts. Rubbish department employees groused that Plans also include a new roof for the old part of the main high school building.

Complete plans for all recommended school improvements, both at elementary schools and at the high school, are on display at the high school. All interested citizens will be welcomed if they will stop by the high school to inspect the schools. Voters need not be registered to vote in school elections.

The program of improvements for Sedalia schools will be submitted to voters for approval at a special school bond election.

Tomorrow's article, the last before the special election Tuesday,

Tuesday, February 7. Polls will be open from 6 a.m. to 7 p.m. at each of Sedalia's seven elementary and high schools.

"It was scary," she said, "as if the watchdogs were asleep."

The bride and bridegroom toured some of the southern states on their honeymoon. For traveling, the bride chose a brown suit with dark accessories and a corsage of orchids.

The bride moved here from Ponca City, Okla., in 1947, and graduated from Smith-Cotton High School. She is employed by the Southwestern Bell Telephone Co.

The bridegroom graduated from Smith-Cotton High School. After serving four years in the Navy, he was discharged in June, 1955. He is employed by Harvey Bros. Implement Co.

They will be at home at 223 South Gentry Avenue.

Martin Has Sure Formula For Big Hits

By JAMES BACON
HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 4 (AP)—Dean Martin has a sure-fire formula for making hit records.

"It's easy," he discloses. "Just spend a whole night cutting the record everybody thinks will be a big hit. Then allow yourself 10 minutes to bat out the fill record for the other side."

"You can't miss. The public will buy the one you made in 10 minutes."

That actually happened with Dean's current smash "Memories Are Made of This." He spent most of the night with full band making a song called "Change of Heart," and used only a few guitars and a drum to knock out "Memories."

Dean says that side was mostly ad libbed, with no rehearsal or retakes.

His first big hit was "That's Amore" and it had a similar history.

"Capitol didn't want to make it. The bosses said it would be too messy—all that stuff about the moon hitting your eye like a pizza pie. I said I'd pay all expenses just so I could have the record for my personal collection. On that basis, they let me make it."

So far, "That's Amore" has sold better than two million.

Dean predicts that Jerry Lewis is going to be a big recording star one of these days.

"Jerry had a lot of trouble getting his records sold. Capitol refused to make them with the hole in the middle. Under his new contract, they will record him on the edge of Tennessee Ernie records."

Dean, one of the fastest men in town with quips, explains his recording success:

"Crosby, Como and all the famous singers have little tricks they do before they make a record. Bing will gargle the white of an egg and come the yellow."

"Me. I use the shell."

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—CBS Radio Workshops recently did Aldous Huxley's "Brave New World," a story of life 600 years from now.

The sound effects man went slightly crazy trying to figure how to depict the assembly line of a factory that manufactures babies in 2556. Here's how he did it: He tape recorded these ingredients—a metronome, tom tom beats, bubbling water, air hose, cow moo, a boing, oscillator, dripping water and three different kinds of wine glasses clinking together. The first time the tape was played, the producer wasn't satisfied.

So the sound man ran the tape backwards and added an echo. That did it.

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Lassie the dog is more than a gold mine—it's an oil well too.

Rudd Weatherwax, owner of the famous movie and television star, banked $243,000 in seven years for seven pictures at MGM. In 1954, Lassie—or Weatherwax—banked more than $100,000. He says 1955 was even better.

Lassie has appeared in 65 TV pictures and Columbia is planning a feature length movie in the spring.

Weatherwax, out of gratitude, bought a 158-acre ranch in the San Fernando Valley. He wants to build a ranch house for Lassie and her kennel mates, including a dozen other dogs that Rudd has trained for the movies and now are too old to work.

He never destroys a dog.

"These old timers all worked in a lot of pictures and they have earned the right to spend their old age lying in the sun," he says.

The ranch property was bought with this in mind. He even bought it in an area where oilmen had drilled a lot of dry oil wells.

So what happens? A well was dug on the land that Lassie bought and it turned out to be a 3,000-gallon-a-day producer.

The screen's most famous fight is recreated by Jeff Chandler and Rory Calhoun in Rex Beach's Lusty, brawling legend of the North Woods country, "The Spoilers", starting today at the Fox Theatre. Anne Baxter is co-starred, and Barbara Britton and John McIntire are featured in the technicolor adventure-film. The "Nat King Cole Musical Story", a featurette in Cinemascope and Technicolor, is on the same program.

Distinctive Movies Are In 'Spring Film Festival'

A unique experience in movie-going is in store for patrons of the Sedalia area with the announcement of the 1956 "Spring Film Festival", starting in the Fox

Criticizes 'Poor' TV On Friday Night

By CHARLES MERCER
NEW YORK (AP)—There comes a letter from James L. Fickel of Columbus, Ohio, who writes:

"Why is Friday night television so very poor? Why isn't some effort being made by one of the networks to break the half-hour monotony with a good 60-minute show? . . . Every critic I've discussed the Friday subject with has almost trembled with fear when pressed for an opinion! Why?"

Well, Mr. Fickel, I never knew a critic to tremble with fear. But if you raise a good question, one that I and many others have wondered about.

First of all, I think there are three generally good regular half-hour programs on the principal networks Friday evenings. Quite apart from the Friday night fights, which draw big audiences, I personally like Ethel and Albert (ABC-TV), Line-up (CBS-TV) and Ed Murrow's Person to Person (CBS-TV).

Before those shows I agree it's pretty monotonous fare. After checking around with some responsible people on the networks I'd say that practically no one denies the general fact. You also can be assured that there is no "plot" to deprive us of a generally higher level of Friday night programs.

Season tickets and additional information concerning the "Spring Film Festival" may be obtained from any member of the Pettis County Medical Auxiliary.

Hitchcock Now Uses His Genius In TV

NEW YORK, Feb. 4 (AP)—Alfred Hitchcock sometimes looks like a benign uncle mulling over a bizarre idea. At other times he looks like a bizarre uncle about to act benignly.

It is, perhaps, an ambivalence in his thinking that is the source of his genius as a maker of motion pictures. He can make the incredible seem quite credible, and the credible can take some incredible twists when Hitchcock puts his mind to it.

For several months now Hitchcock has been presenting half-hour filmed dramas on CBS-TV Sunday nights. They usually are quite good. It should not be news that the creator of such films as "Dial M for Murder," "Rear Window" and "To Catch a Thief" is doing a good job for television. But then you recall what some other able movie makers have done on television and it gives you pause.

At any rate, Hitchcock said a while back in Hollywood—or was reported as saying—something about the superior quality of film-making over televising. Confronted with this canard in New York, Hitchcock raised his brows, folded his hands precisely on his stomach and looked pained.

There must have been some mistake, he gently suggested. Perhaps the man seated opposite him had misinterpreted.

"There's a difference in thinking in the movies and television," he said. "There's a great difference between the economic investment made in making a motion picture and the investment in one television dramatic show. The result is that a television show can have an unhappy or, let us say, a grim ending. We do it frequently on our television show, you know. The public likes it. But if we were to do that in a feature-length motion picture—" he shook his head dubiously.

"Despite all this talk about sponsor pressures and the like, I believe there is really more freedom in television than in the movies. In a very interesting way the limitations in time and money put on a television production permit as certain ingenuity that is impossible in a highly budgeted feature-length film."

Hitchcock is in New York for a dozen weeks to do a motion picture based on the actual case of a waiter here who was unjustly accused of a crime. The filming of "The Balestro Case" is in the neighborhood where the man lived.

Meanwhile he's going right on with his filmed TV dramas.

Woman Tours Nation Giving Advice on Art of Shaving

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—If there is one time the average fellow feels least in need of a woman's advice, it's probably while he's shaving.

"But he's wrong," insisted pretty Rem Schoen, who believes she is the world's only lady career pogonotomist. "Most men don't really know how to shave properly—even though they do it about 16,000 times in their lifetime."

Miss Schoen, a former Paterson, N.J., grade school teacher, got into the field of pogonotomy, the art of shaving, by accident.

While working temporarily as a model, she learned that executives of the Gem Safety Razor Co. were depressed over the fact so few men knew how to get a really good shave. She sold them on the idea of letting her tour the nation and give demonstrations of proper shaving techniques in high schools, colleges, offices and factories.

To prepare for her career Miss Schoen tutored for several months under Elbridge J. Casselman, a Staunton, Va., scientist. She feels Casselman is to pogonotomy as Shakespeare is to literature. He's the titan of the beard world.

"He has been studying shaving scientifically for more than 25 years," she said. "A remarkable man—always clean-shaven, I don't think I ever saw him with stubble on his face."

During her demonstrations Miss Schoen admits she sometimes finds it difficult to get a man to act as guinea pig while she shows off her shaving grace.

"Men seem instinctively distrustful of a woman with a razor in her hand," she said, smiling. "But so far I've been lucky. I haven't lopped off a nose or ear yet."

"A shave will last longer if you wash your whiskers off after breakfast. Before breakfast your face is still puffy from sleep.

"Blue collar workers today shave just as often as white collar workers, but they often shave at night rather than in the morning.

"The thickness of a man's beard is no index of his virility."

Miss Schoen says that Alexander the Great was probably the first military leader to order his troops to shave as a military measure.

"He did it so the enemy couldn't grab his men by their beards in close combat," she explained.

Record Death And Havoc By Storm 'Janet'

MIAMI, Feb. 4 (AP) — The cost of almost everything keeps going up, and hurricanes are no exception.

The lashing ladies from the tropics dealt the Western Hemisphere a two-billion-dollar blow in 1955, half of it in the United States.

It was far and away the most destructive hurricane season in history, so far as property damage is concerned. And out of it came a new champion in the field of death and havoc. Her name was not Connie, nor Diane, the highly publicized pair who dealt the East Coast a one-two punch.

It was Janet, who concentrated her fury in the Southern waters but spread disaster wherever she struck. She rates with the great storms of history in power, in damage, in death. No one will ever know how many people she killed.

Once more the fury of many storms was pointed at the Northeastern states, raising anew the question whether they are following a cycle in that area. Their old stamping ground, Florida, was entirely free of hurricane winds and is suffering from drought because no hurricane rains have fallen on the state for five years.

Gordon E. Dunn, chief storm forecaster in the Miami Weather Bureau, opened his final report on the 1955 hurricane season with this doleful summary: "For the second consecutive year all records were broken for hurricane destruction."

"A conservative estimate of hurricane casualties is 1,518 but probably many more than that number died in Mexico alone from hurricane-induced floods," said Dunn.

He pointed out that three hurricanes struck within 150 miles of Tampico, Mexico, within 25 days and "the resulting floods culminated in the greatest natural catastrophe in the history of that country." Damage in Mexico was in excess of 200 million dollars.

Tropical storm Diane, striking the United States, became the first billion-dollar storm the world has ever known.

Most of the year's 218 storm dead in this country resulted from Diane. This storm moved in as a hurricane on the North Carolina coast on Aug. 17, lost strength as it moved over land, and became a rainstorm of record proportions.

Coming only a week behind another heavy rain producer, Connie, the new hurricane sent normally peaceful rivers on a rampage which will long be remembered for its drama as well as its destructiveness.
